

Natasha Pentagioti

Natasha Pentagioti is a Ph.D. Candidate in International Law and Politics at Panteion University of Social and Political Sciences. She holds a Master's Degree in Environmental Governance and Sustainable Development (Jean Monnet) at Panteion University and a M.Sc on Bioeconomics, at Piraeus University. She is a journalist, member of Journalist's National Union of Athens Daily Newspapers. She is a member of Unesco's Education for Sustainable Development Young Leaders and a Sustainable Development Goals enthusiast. Since 2016, she is a researcher at European Center for Environmental Research and Training at Panteion University in the field of Agenda 2030 and for that, she has designed and implemented several workshops according to non-formal education for sustainable development. She is currently Communications Officer and Special Advisor on Sustainable Development for the European Parliament and Co-founder of Sustainable WE community.

Mail add.: nataspent@gmail.com

Proposed title:

Water: Poverty, Inequalities and Climate Change adaptation. An SDG's perspective